Preparations Made For Big Lawn Fete For Dwight's Home

On the lawn of "The Homestead" Saturday, July 16, from 2 to 10 o'clock afternoon and evening, Mrs. William R. Moody and the board of managers for Dwight's Home at Mt. Hermon will welcome all friends and visitors in town to a benefit fair and lawn fete. Dwight's Home is an infirmary for the boys of Mt. Hermon school built and maintained on the campus.

These fairs have been an annual event and important in providing a social opportunity in the community and also profitable for the cause. This year there will be booths for children's clothes and toys; kitchen aprons, towels and holders; books and pictures, and a "white elephant" sale.

In the afternoon tea will be served, and an Irish jaunting car will entertain the children. A cafeteria supper will be served from 5:30 to 7 o'clock and there will be music from 8 to 10.

Mrs. Louis Smith of Mt. Hermon is the chairman of an active committee for the fair. We hope to announce the various groups in charge of the booths and details next week.

Preparations Begun For Music Festival By Director Reecher

Marvin E. Reecher, recent graduate of the Westminster Choir school in Princeton, N. J., has been appointed by Dr. John Finley Williamson, president and founder of the choir school, to direct rehearsals throughout the Connecticut valley and in Athol in preparation for the fourth Northfield Festival of Music. The festival will be held on the campus of Northfield Seminary on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 14 at 4 o'clock.

Marvin E. Reecher

Mr. Reecher is a resident of Hagerstown, Md. At Westminster the new appointee was president of the student body, a member of the famous Westminster choir, and a director of various choral and church choirs. For the past few years the new director has studied voice under Charles Cassel and John G. Baumgartner and at the same time has developed skill as a pianist under Prof. Klein and Alma Steedman of Princeton.

Arrangements for rehearsals in the various cities and towns have been made and will begin this week. They will take place in Springfield at the First Church of Christ on Tuesday evenings; in Northampton at the First Church of Christ on Thursday evenings; in Greenfield at the First Baptist church on Friday evenings; in East Northfield at the Seminary's music hall on Wednesday evening; and in Athol at the Y.M.C.A. on Monday evenings.

Anyone interested in the furtherance of church music and in studying under the Westminster Choir school director is invited to participate. The last half-hour of the festival will be broadcast over a nation-wide NBC hook-up at 4:30 p. m. Aug. 14, directly from the Auditorium at East Northfield.

The Hospital Fete Friday, August 5

At a meeting of the local board of the Franklin County hospital, composed of women, of which Miss C. Ina Merriman is chairman, held last week Thursday afternoon at the home of the chairman, it was decided to hold the annual food sale and lawn fete on the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 5 and by invitation, upon the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ambert G. Moody on Highland avenue. While the event is some weeks away, the committee felt it wise to announce the date and urge our citizens to arrange participation. The committees in charge of the various tables and refreshments will be named very soon.

Moody Exhibit is Re-opened This Year At the "Birthplace" on Seminary Campus Visitors Will Be Greeted by Mr. Fitt

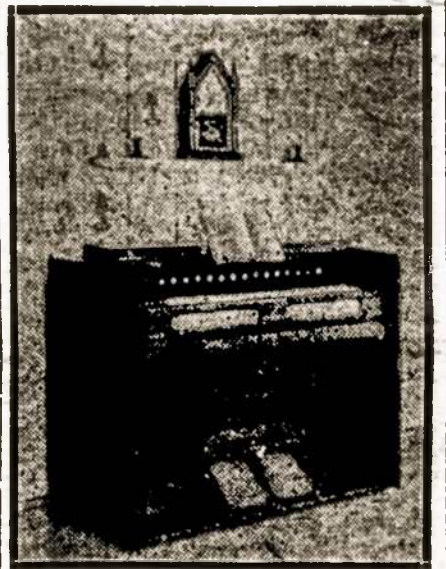

Thousands of visitors to Northfield this summer will again be privileged to pay a visit to the Moody Memorial exhibit which will be conducted at the "Birthplace" on the Seminary campus at the junction of Moody street, Highland avenue, and Winchester road. Mr. Fitt, a son-in-law of the famous evangelist and educator will be in charge with assistants, to explain the significance of the various exhibits.

Visitors will see in the old home the room in which Moody was born and the crib in which the infant Dwight, sixth in a family of nine children was rocked to sleep.

The only known picture of the father, Edwin Moody, who died in 1841 when Dwight was four years old, is on display. The Moody family tree reveals that John Moody came to Hartford from England in 1632. On the mother's side, the Holton family tree indicated that William Holton came from England in 1634, also settling in Hartford, eight generations ago.

All Church Women Urged To Attend

During the meetings of the Seminary conference on the Seminary campus a day has been set apart for a gathering of the women of the Connecticut valley to attend and enjoy the addresses. The day is Thursday, July 14. A picnic lunch and coffee will be served on the Betsey Moody lawn. This is an annual event and the pleasant experience of past years will be renewed. All women interested in missionary work especially from nearby churches are urged to attend. The call for the day's gathering is issued by Mrs. Ambert G. Moody.

Builds New Home

Another new residence is to be erected in Northfield. Walter Hyde has purchased of Miss Moody, a plot of ground on the northerly side of North Lane adjoining the new home of Miss Bosk, and has begun the construction of a cottage home.

Leavis & Bolton have begun the work and it is to be completed for occupancy this fall. In the interim Mr. and Mrs. Hyde are occupying an apartment in the Bookstore building.

Duda House Burned

The old abandoned and dilapidated house, formerly known as the Duda home, on the meadow land in West Northfield just beyond the Schell bridge, was destroyed by fire early 4th of July morning. The fire department was summoned but the house was consumed. It had been carried from its foundations during the big flood of two years ago and was abandoned by its occupants. It is presumed that the fire had been set by boys as a holiday prank, yet within the meaning of the law proved to be a case of arson.

Mrs. Ha Moody of Orange will be with Mrs. N. P. Wood at her home here for an indefinite stay.

copies have been sold, are seen next to the pulpit used by Moody in the Northfield auditorium meetings. To this pulpit Moody attracted such famous religious leaders as Henry Drummond, Francis E. Clark and Booker T. Washington.

Seated in Moody's spacious chair, every visitor signs his name with Moody's own pen and inkwell at the desk which used to be in his own library. On the mantelpiece stands "Lady Pendulum's clock," presented to Moody by one of the evangelist's converts who, after hesitating a long time from fear of becoming a backslider, finally made the decision upon hearing him tell the story that God would give grace moment by moment just as the clock ticks one at a time.

The signature of Mark Hopkins, president of Williams college, is found on a document indicating Moody's honorary membership to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. Hundreds of pictures and other items relating to the Northfield Schools, the evangelistic campaigns, the Northfield summer conferences, and other projects reveal Moody's limitless energy and prove the truth of his own statement: "Some day you will read in the newspapers that D. L. Moody of East Northfield is dead. Don't you believe it. At that time I shall be more alive than I am now."

The exhibit is practically the same as last year, with some few additions of personal mementoes and admission is free.

Considerable space on page three is given to the opening of the new Lubritorium of Spencer Brothers and the advertisements of local business folks who supplied labor and materials. The photographs are by Hame's and the plates by Mohawk Engraving.

To Consider Missions At Next Conference Beginning Monday

The Northfield Missionary conference will begin its annual sessions next Monday when hundreds of women will gather from the various churches of New England, New York and New Jersey on the Seminary campus.

Mrs. H. Lewis Hardy is chairman of the program committee and has announced that plans include a laboratory school for the young delegates to the denominational camps as well as an attractive schedule for the women's classes.

The laboratory method will offer Bible, Worship, and Mission study courses in which each class will become an experimenting, exploring, and fact-finding group, correlating the three subjects and demonstrating their inter-relationship in a public program at the close of conference.

Eight competent leaders will guide the thinking of the girls who will be enrolled in these laboratory classes. Prominent among them are Mrs. Elizabeth A. Brubaker, Dr. Emily Werner of the New York Biblical Seminary, and Miss Marguerite Hazard of the Union Theological seminary's school of Sacred Music.

One of the adult classes will be led by Miss Gertrude Schultz of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, who will also be one of the principal speakers of the conference. The name of Dr. Caroline Palmer of the New York City Biblical seminary is noteworthy on the list of classroom instructors. A specialist on City Missions, the Rev. Stanley Hazard, will attend the gathering this year and will bring with him representatives of several racial groups who will give demonstrations and hold symposiums.

Mrs. Gula G. Plummer of Melrose, Mass., is chairman of the conference.

Change At Library

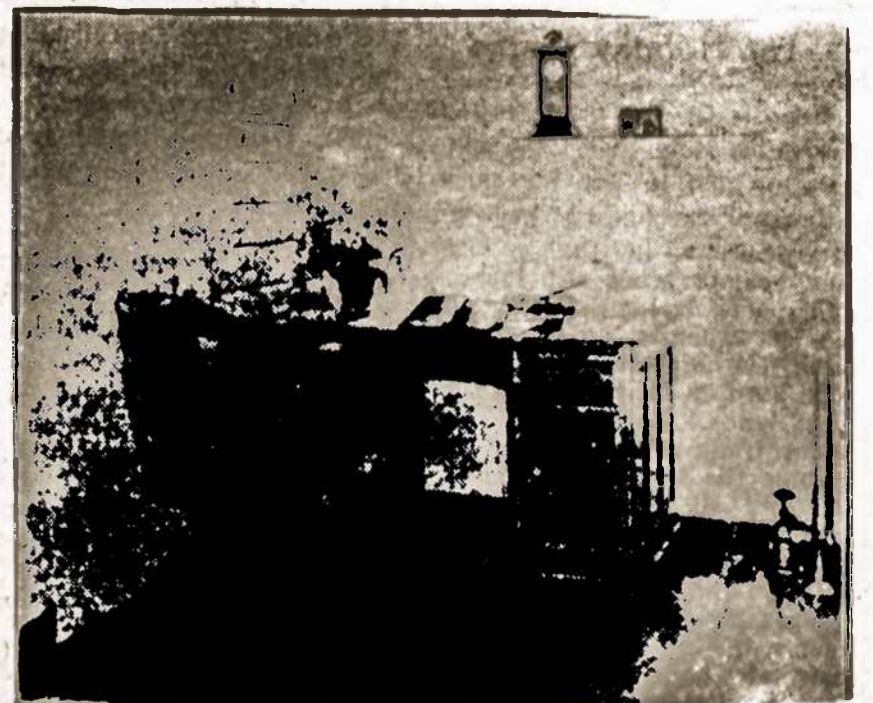

William T. Piggott who for many years has been the caretaker at the Dickinson public library resigned on July 1 and his place was filled by the trustees in the appointment of Harlan Atwood, effective immediately.

Women's Alliance

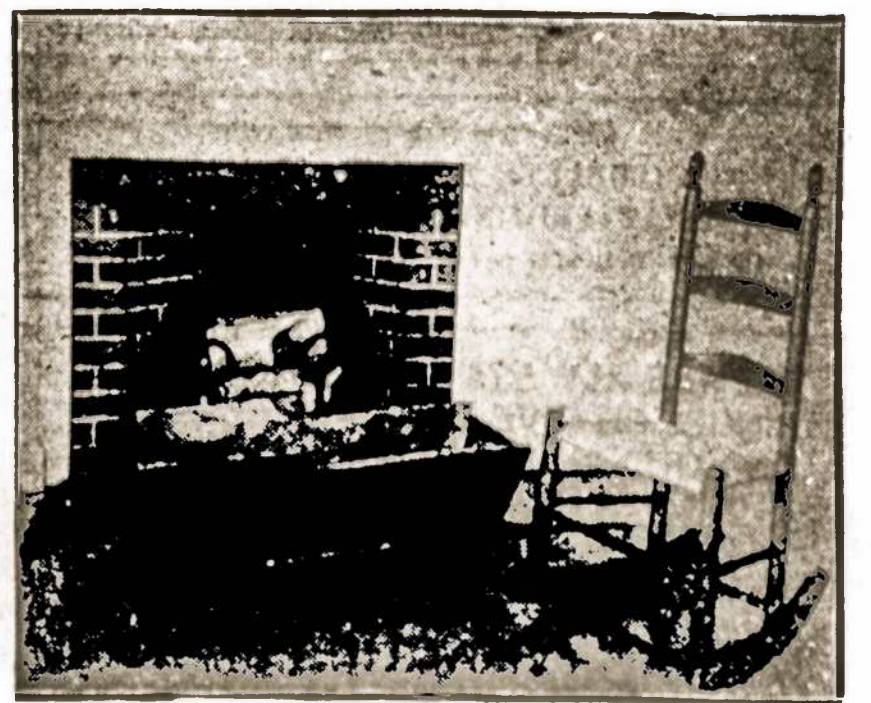

The Alliance of the Unitarian church will meet with Mrs. Robert McCastline and Mrs. F. E. Heald Thursday, July 14 at 2:30 o'clock. The program will be in the nature of a symposium in which three groups of Alliance members will speak on "Our Alliance, a) What is best in it? b) What is its problem c) What is our hope for it?"

taught by the Rev. Chester Wood, missionary for the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, at Suisu, China. These courses are called, Making Missions Live and Missions in the East.

Leach - Fish

An attractive church wedding was held at the Second Baptist church at Colrain last Saturday afternoon, when Miss Virginia Elinor Fish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Fish of Colrain, was married to Ralph Kenneth Leach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O. Leach of Northfield. Rev. John J. Parsons, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Fish, sister of the bride, and Vincent Sullivan of Bolton was best man. The ushers were Howard Fish and Myron Fish, brothers of the bride.

The bride, who entered the church upon the arm of her father, was charmingly attired in dusky rose marquisette with Juliette cap and veil and carried a bridal bouquet of gardenias and baby's breath. The bridesmaid was attractively gowned in aquamarine blue marquisette with a white picture hat and carried a bouquet of golden dawn roses. The mother of the bride was attired in figured silk gown and the groom's mother was gowned in navy blue georgette.

Mrs. Vincent Sullivan of Bolton played "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond, before the ceremony, and the wedding marches. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played as the bridal procession entered the church, and it was also used as the recessional.

The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, roses, peonies, delphinium and other flowers under the direction of Mrs. Alice Stetson. The ceremony was performed before an arch of evergreen and syringa.

After the ceremony the bride and groom greeted the guests informally at the church and a reception followed immediately at the home of the bride's parents. The wedding cake was made by the bride and Mrs. Ralph O. Leach, mother of the bridegroom. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid and also to the organist were figured silk crepe scarfs.

The newly married couple were the recipients of many useful and beautiful gifts. Worthy of special mention was a generous sum of money to the bride from the children of the Pierce street school in Greenfield.

The bride is a graduate of Arms academy and the North Adams State Teachers college. She taught two years in Northfield and two years in Greenfield at the Pierce street school. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Northfield high school and of the New York Diesel Institute in Albany. He is in business with his father in the Leach Body Works in Northfield.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Leach left on a trip of unannounced destination. The bride's traveling costume was a wine colored figured silk redingote ensemble with white hat and accessories. The couple plan to make their home in Northfield about July 15. Their new home will be at the place formerly owned by the grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Osgood Leach.

This wedding was of special interest as it was the first wedding ever to be held in Colrain Second Baptist church. The church building was built in 1802 and timber for the building was furnished by Deacon Arad Nichols, great grandfather of the bride.

Norton - Howard

A wedding of local interest took place last Saturday, July 2, at Christ church in Lexington, Ky., when Miss Elizabeth T. Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Howard of Lexington, was married to John Albion Norton, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Norton of Greenfield and formerly of Mt. Hermon.

Miss Jane Duffy of Louisville, Ky., was maid of honor. The best man was the bridegroom's oldest brother, Dr. Richard C. Norton, member of the staff of the Battle Creek sanitarium in Michigan. A reception at the Hotel Lafayette followed the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and has taken graduate courses at Columbia university. She is a teacher and librarian in the public schools of Ludlow, Ky. The bridegroom is a graduate of Mt. Hermon school, 1927, and of Yale university, 1931. He spent one year at Oxford and then joined the staff of the Sterling Memorial library at Yale. He obtained his B. S. in library science at Columbia in 1937 and took a position in the New York public library about a year ago. The couple will be at home after July 26 at 39 Cameron avenue, Hempstead, Long Island.

The bridegroom's parents moved to Lexington, Ky., for the wedding.

Salesman: Did you like that cigar I gave you? For 500 coupons of that brand you get a banjo.

Customer: If I smoke 500 of these cigars, I'd need a harp.

Enjoyed Visit

About forty members of the Franklin County Business and Professional Women's club were delightfully entertained by Dr. Anne M. Fielding at her cottage on Lake Pleasant, last Friday evening.

Supper was followed by a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Hermon Denton of Turners Falls, the club's latest bride. After the presentation of a wedding cake, the club's soloist, Miss Irene Goddard of Greenfield, and the club's quartet, consisting of Miss Irene Goddard, Miss Anna Houdek, Mrs. Georgia Donovan, and Dr. Anne M. Fielding, sang appropriate selections.

These were followed by the playing of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, by Mrs. Elizabeth Maxwell, the club's pianist. Marching to its accompaniment, the bride was led to an adjoining room, where she found clothes lines on which were hung interesting looking packages. After the "clothes" were taken down, much merriment was had as the gifts were opened and the accompanying verses read. The evening ended with a short business meeting.

As the party dispersed, Dr. Fielding graciously gave many of her guests bouquets of beautiful roses from her gardens.

The Northfield club members who attended were Miss Gladys Ellithorpe, and Miss Priscilla Colton.

AYH Registrations

Nearly 1500 overnight hostellers have registered at the local hostel since January 1, last. This is as much as the total reported in 1937. A glance over their "occupations" shows what a cross-section of society they represent. Teachers and students are in a majority, but many professions have been represented, including an architect, interior decorator, engineers, dietician, librarians, beautician, minister, landscape gardener. One hosteller was a sailor just home from a 3-years' trip around the world. Y. W. secretaries, girl scout leaders, social directors and other social workers have enrolled. Several radio and newspaper men and photographers and a publicity director have been guests. Four student nurses came in a group, and one physiotherapist. A number of business people also registered, clerks, bookkeepers, printer, machinist, salesman, etc.

The Holiday Traffic

Reports in the press and on the radio state that large numbers of people left the larger cities over the holiday week-end for vacations in the country.

Many camps were also opening and special trains carried excursionists especially to New England. The highways were filled with autoists all headed to summer lands. Beginning Friday motor traffic through Northfield became the heaviest of the season and all day Saturday and Sunday there was a constant line of cars going northward. Perhaps the largest number of visitors here, were guests at the homes of our summer residents, many of whom entertained large house parties over the week-end.

After Monday there was a procession of cars going back but their number was offset by the increasing number of cars still headed for vacationland.

Dumb: What inspired the forty-niners to go across the plains in a covered wagon?

Bell: I suppose that they did not want to wait a long time for a train.

Jones: My wife presented me with two babies last week. We named one of them Hallelujah and the other Encore.

Smith: Well, I understand why you named one Hallelujah all right, but why Encore for the other?

Jones: Encore was the last one born and he wasn't on the program.

A distinguished visitor at a lunatic asylum went to the telephone and found difficulty in getting his connection. Exasperated, he shouted to the operator: "Look here, girl, do you know who I am?"

"No, but I know where you are," came back the calm reply.

FRED A. DONALDSON APPOINTED MANAGER J. G. TURNBULL CO.

The J. G. Turnbull Company, manufacturers of ice cream and other dairy products, announced recently that the Board of Directors has appointed Fred A. Donaldson of Bernardston as general manager to succeed the late Randolph W. Turnbull.

At the same time, General Manager Donaldson announced publicly that the business will be carried on in the same friendly and efficient manner, the same high quality product and the same general policies that have made the company one of the finest of its type in the east.

Mr. Donaldson is well qualified to hold his high position, having learned the business in every phase. He entered the company's service in 1912 as a mechanic and maintenance man in the creamery, later was a mixer and for the past 16 years he has been sales manager. He is very well known to the ice cream dealers of Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire whom he has contacted regularly for many years.

The J. G. Turnbull Company was established in 1891 at Orleans, Vt., by the late J. G. Turnbull. For many years the concern operated creameries throughout Northern Vermont, New Hampshire and New York state, at one time owning 17 of these branches. Some of the milk was made into butter and a great deal was shipped into Boston for the metropolitan trade.

In 1916 the company started the manufacture of ice cream in a small way and at about the same time Mr. Turnbull's two sons, Leon and Randolph, became associated with him in the business. Since its entry into the ice cream field, the company has grown steadily until today it is second to none in the ranks of independent manufacturers in New England.

A branch plant was opened in 1920 at Greenfield and the business grew so swiftly that in 1926 the company built its modern plant on the Mohawk Trail where its main offices were eventually located. It opened a branch in Worcester in 1933 and has developed a large trade in that section of the state. It's Worcester headquarters is now at 946 Main street, and is connected with a large dairy bar.

The Sunny Farms Ice Cream Bar on the Mohawk Trail is another active branch of the organization.

That the promotion of Mr. Donaldson is a well earned one is not only appreciated within the organization itself but also extends itself to many others who have so expressed themselves in congratulatory personal messages.

Customer: I've been appointed a movie censor, and I want to dress appropriately.

Tailor: Yes, sir, I'll measure you for a cutaway.

Lady of the house: In the time it takes me to tell you what to do I could easily do it myself.

Jobbing Gardener: Yes'm. An' in the time it takes me to listen, so could I.

Sawmill Burned

Fire destroyed the sawmill and woodworking plant in Vernon of Claude Tenney and Francis Smead, Thursday of last week with the loss of all machinery, one truck and a quantity of finished lumber. There was no insurance. The Brattleboro fire department was called, but owing to the lack of water could do nothing except save surrounding property. The firm employed eight men, some from South Vernon, who now will have plenty to do in the rebuilding, which will be undertaken at once. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained.

First Hostel Tour Starts This Week

The first all-summer regional hostel trip starts this week from Northfield, to tour the New England hostels by bike and to do some pioneering work in Canada. Besides this group, some 150 young people are hosting in Europe in AYH groups and 40 are traveling on the Rolling Youth Hostel.

Under the leadership of the Region 2 field worker, Archie Stark, many of the group of 15 boys and girls will be introduced to their first hosting experience. They plan to bike from 30 to 50 miles a day, taking plenty of time, however, to enjoy the country as they go, to stop for cooling swims and to explore places of special interest. Undoubtedly they will also take time out to climb any mountain which ooms in sight, as Archie Stark is an experienced alpine climber, having scaled many difficult mountains in Europe.

In Canada this hostel group will be joined by Dorothy Ahen, Secretary of the Canadian Youth Hostel association. As there are not yet any youth hostels in Eastern Canada, the group will carry sleeping bags with them and will camp out whenever necessary. They plan, however, to set up hostels as they go, visiting all the likely locations, calling on the city fathers and, in general, preparing the ground for hostel development.

Marlboro Branch Bridge

That old-time covered wooden bridge That spans the Marlboro branch Abandoned now a relic lies On its foundation staunch.

To us who felt the dangers oft In blind approaching curves Reminder of its terrors past, Of frequent shattered nerves.

Memorial of our gratitude Our sighs of sweet relief When death we had again escaped And its attendant grief.

For now upon our travels safe Across the new bridge wide With straightaway at either end All fears are cast aside.

We cross with naught to mar our joy Along West River valley grand Amid the beauty of the hills Unmatched on every hand.

—A. M. Watts, Jamaica from Brattleboro Reformer

The American and Canadian Youth Hostel Associations have been working in very close operation, and it is hoped that the growth of these two organizations will mean another firm bond of friendship between the two countries, and that hostel trails will lead back and forth across borders as though no borders existed.

Camps Are Open

The Virginia Fresh Air camp received its first contingent of girls from New York on Tuesday of this week. There are fifty girls in the group and they immediately made themselves at home in the camp under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Harper who is in charge. At the former camp of Louise Andrews, now owned by the Salvation Army, arrived some seventy boys who are fully enjoying themselves. The boys marched down to enjoy the 4th of July bonfire on the Seminary grounds Monday evening and kept splendid good behavior. Northfield is happy to have these young folks here.

The Grange Building

Marked by elaborate observances in which high officers of

New England State, Pomona, and subordinate Granges will take part, the cornerstone of the New England Grange building, now under construction on the Eastern States Exposition ground in West Springfield will be laid Saturday afternoon, July 23, at 1:30 o'clock. The cornerstone, of Westerly granite, comes from Westerly, R. I.

The Grange building, a cooperative effort in which all New England State Granges are participating, and the first regional undertaking of its type ever attempted in the United States, will be completed prior to the opening of the Exposition on Sept. 18, and will be dedicated on Wednesday, Sept. 21.

Dunklee Publicity

In the June issue of the Co-operator, the official organ of the Eastern State Co-operative association, is a fine picture of A. A. Dunklee of South Vernon, who has for many years been a director in the corporation. Mr. Dunklee who is a top-notch farmer, with a successful experience runs the large dairy farm at South Vernon on the road to Brattleboro. The picture shows Mr. Dunklee's hands to the plow although dressed in too fine clothes for such effort. Perhaps it was taken as he was leaving for the legislature of the state where he served with credit and with marked ability.

America Chooses Its Typical Small Home

Four to five rooms, American Colonial design, safe rooms demanded

On the basis of a nationwide survey, Randolph Evans, famous architect, has planned for the Monthly Small House Club the home sketched above. It represents a composite of the typical home favored by builders all over the United States. The house includes 12,374 cubic feet. It has an ample living room, including a large, cheery fireplace. The two bed rooms are of good size, equipped with deep clothes closets and the bath is convenient to both. The kitchen is admirably arranged in the important matter of saving steps. The dinette provides all dining facilities needed by a small family save in the occasional emergency of several guests. As the house is planned, there is room for the heater on the floor level. However, the plan has been so drawn that a basement including a boiler-room may be added for almost no additional expense.

A definite trend in today's home-building, according to Mr. Evans, is the insistent demand of the home-owner for safety and comfort as well as attractive appearance. In the case of roofing on such a home as this, improvements in manufacture in recent years have made it possible to combine safety with extreme attractiveness, durability and economy in the mineral-surfaced asphalt shingle roof. Such a roof, available either in strip shingles or the individual style, is recommended for protection against chimney sparks from your own or neighboring chimneys; for the beauty inherent in the color of your choice and for economy based on low purchase price, ease of application and long service.

These shingles are also being widely used on already-built houses where it becomes necessary to replace the old-fashioned roof, as well as on countless new homes, rural, suburban and in large cities.

Real comfort for today's American family calls for properly applied home insulation, of which mineral wool is the most widely used and effective type. While such insulation is not apparent to the passerby, its effects are marked to the occupants, not only in the comfort of coolness in summer and warmth in winter but also in economy. Mineral wool insulation eliminates the "hard to heat" room and provides a liberal return on the money invested by definite savings in fuel bills.

EDITORIAL

Politics looms on the horizon and already many of the candidates for public office are circulating their petitions in town. Members of the local Democratic and Republican committees have aided in securing signatures but neither organization has endorsed the candidacy of any aspirant. The ballyhoo of office seekers is entirely absent as yet. In this conservative community the ability of candidates will be carefully weighed. Preferences will exist without doubt but the expression is reserved for the ballot box. The Press opens its columns to every candidate in their appeal to the voters with regard to affiliation. In this position we are independent in politics, but the Editor reserves the right to speak out at any time against the fallacies present in the platform or declaration of any candidate.

Among the millions of birthdays occurring each year here and there on the earth's face, there is one which is absolutely unique. It is the Fourth of July. The more than one hundred and fifty years of existence it can boast have all been passed as a democracy, under one type of government and one Constitution. Only the government of England can boast a longer existence. France, Germany, Russia, Japan and the rest have changed their political structures so often that they seem like youngsters compared to us.

But the United States has enjoyed the liberty and justice that come only under democracy for over a century and a half now. Every additional birthday becomes a cause for greater rejoicing, for it helps to prove that freedom is the only enduring ideal in a changing world.

It is hard to realize that America has had so many birthdays. Democracy does not show its age. Today, when reactionary systems of all kinds are running wild over half the globe, this country of ours seems by contrast younger than ever for it has the vitality and the strength that goes with youth.

And the Fourth of July—the most important birthday in the world—should be our reminder that democracy is the only way of life that ensures happy birthdays for all of us who live and enjoy our freedom under it.

The Back Yard Gardener

I think that I have mentioned this before, but it pleases me so much that I can't help repeating it. The recommendations of the garden specialists are that the old-fashioned hoe is still one of the best implements for back yard cleaning and that you want to be a bit lazy when using it.

The past couple of weeks I have been talking about back-yard troubles in the line of insects and diseases, and you know without my telling you that weeds can be almost as great a bug-bear. Weeds reduce plant yields and increase cost of growing vegetables. In fact, the bigger the weeds are the more they cost, simply because they take more water and food which the vegetables should have.

Most folks cultivate to get a soil mulch and conserve moisture, but these garden specialists, or olericulturists as they call themselves, say that well-informed growers, and that includes you and me of course, cultivate to kill weeds. In other words, they, we I mean, conserve the moisture in the soil by preventing weeds from taking it.

Of course a mulch helps in absorbing rain when it does come, especially during these light showers, but they say that it is doubtful if a soil mulch is particularly effective in controlling moisture on moist soils and with most crops. So the answer is simply to use your hoe sparingly, just keep it nice and sharp and cut the weeds up when they are small.

If you are going to use a so-called shovel or wheel hoe, use the type which has flat knives or sweeps. They skim through the ground just under the surface and cut off the weeds and at the same time they do make a mulch. It is not too deep and

THE POCKETBOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

It is a good deal smoother than when you use any other type of cultivator.

I was quite dumbfounded when they told me how much these blatted weeds really reproduce. One year of seed means seven years of weeds, they say, and I can see that they are right, because seeds of pigweed, black mustard, and so forth have been known to germinate 15 to 20 years after being buried in the soil.

So keep after those weeds and see that they don't go to seed. They say that a large shepherd's purse plant may produce 50,000 seeds, a wild mustard plant over 200,000, and a purslane (sometimes called pusley) will produce one and a quarter million seeds. So you see folks, in this case, an ounce of prevention may be worth tons of seeds.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

Most everybody has something or other in the back of his head which he hopes to do sometime—like going to the Grand Canyon, or watching Sam Chapman hit a home run, or maybe play the guitar.

And I am in the same boat, and I have always wanted to write an essay on vice-presidents—like where there is 8 or 10 of them with some company—and their stenographer will not let you see them.

But I have never been able to write, because I know 2 or 3 of the ducks who are 100 per cent O. K. and they might happen to read my stuff, and I would lose a friend.

But maybe I could make one suggestion. And by doing so, maybe I will not need to write. And if I was a President of one of these companies, with 10 vice-presidents, I would have all of them take a month, each year, and travel around and call on other vice-presidents who are in conference and cannot see you. Yours, with the low down, JO SERRA

House Away From The Road

Let me live in a house away from the road Where the cars and the trucks go by;

Where the noise and din, and the rattle of tin Ring loud through a midnight sky.

Where the sirens shriek like a fire alarm And backfires like cannons roar,

I've sold that shack, and I'm not going back To live there any more.

The maple that stood where it looked so good With seats beneath its shade. Was hit by a truck—it was my hard luck—

When the brakes failed down the grade. The sparkling spring with its babbling brook That flowed through the meadow green, Along its brink looks a bit like ink. And it smells like gasoline.

I'd like to live by the side of the road And be a friend to man; And freely give of the life I live But I don't believe I can.

I've lost my nerve watching "Dead Man's Curve," Where the maimed and the dying call; Where through the night from a glaring light Strange ghosts dance on my wall...

I'm moving back from the old race track, From the din and the traffic's roar,

To a little home where the roses bloom And the birds sing 'round my door;

Where the trees in bloom give a sweet perfume— A part of an infinite plan; Where the sun shines bright and I sleep all night

And feel like a friend to man. W. W. Fahrney, Timberville, Va. To The New York Sun

"Don't Leave Debris"
The Commissioner of Public Works admonishes motorists to enjoy themselves on the highways of the state, but he cautions all, that if they stop to enjoy a repast or a family picnic "to remove the debris before they leave." The highways are built for the public and efforts are being made to beautify them and keep them clean. The motorists should cooperate in the effort.

For Remembrance
I found it nestled in a book between the pages where I placed it in remembrance, of a cherished friend, and there it lay; its petals faded with the long unfolding years.

Its beauty gone, but I could see a flower to which adheres A beauty everlasting, the outward show was bare.

The symbol of an honored love, and hearts in perfect tune. And hours in mutual closeness spent, when thoughts met to commune.

In silent wonder, asking how and why and when. So great a love had come to us, and lest we lose it, then

We picked a rose at evening's close, to hold one day in June. —By M. Howe from Ware News
